

Logline:
Two experts travel the US searching for local carnivals in order to learn how to beat their games.

Reality – Popular Science

13 x 30'

With video cameras in hand, two experts travel from state to state searching for local carnivals in order to learn how to beat their games.

In each episode the team rebuilds a handful of carnival games at their 'mobile lab' to study and try to figure out how they are designed to always beat us. Getting inside the game they are able to test and learn the secret techniques to winning. Carnival stories and their unique characters are a mainstay in each show as well.

Episodes end with our team returning to the carnival to wind down for a successful evening of fun and prizes!

